Altarcito

As you enter the Sacred Heart Chapel, you will notice the “altarcito”, a small shrine similar to those prepared by Mexican and Mexican-Americans in their homes. This is to remember their deceased loved ones on the “Day of the Dead” which we observe in the Commemoration of the Faithful Departed (All Souls Day). The flowers, candles, and small sugar skulls (calaveritas) remind us of the reality of death and our hope in the resurrection. Please feel free to bring photos of deceased relatives and friends and place them on the altarcito.
